	,,	11th July	Do. ..	All the papers belonging to the packages, those that were within, as well as those without, were examined. It was come to the conclusion that most of the packets belonged to people in Calicut and that no Englishman owned anything in the vessel. It was, moreover, certified from papers and other information that the vessel belonged to one Chevenissa at Calicut and not to the Resident.

At the commencement of it the Pamicaal ? made a sacrifice to the evil one by burying a man alive and pouring the blood of 150 fowls over the spot to prevent the Company from being successful. Noteworthy during this expedition was the taking of Madilagam Carro, which took a day. The white flag was put up after a hard struggle, but to the question as to what was their desire, answer was given that they preferred to die on the spot. Firing being resumed the flag was hoisted a second time and the enemy allowed to leave the place with their arms according to their request. The Admiral placed himself in the gateway of the inner fortifications to see them pass out, when a shot was heard followed by the explosion of a gunpowder magazine while the Nairs made an attempt to fall on the troops of the Company. Order was then issued and promptly executed to massacre the whole garrison.	Diary of the expedition against the Zamorin, 1716, 1717.

Regenade begged for two deputies to confer with about the affairs of Barssalore The servants were ordered to act in this matter as seemed prudent. 288	1740.	13th Jan.	Cochin ..	The rumour that the French intended settling themselves near Mahé was proved true by their landing at that place cannons and other materials necessary for fortifications. Their plan seemed to be to occupy the country of Punatur. Resolved to send the vessel Polanen with some European troops thither in order to come to the same understanding with the French as there existed with the English nation concerning besieged towns and places.	Resolutions, 1740.

No.	Date.		Dated from	Nature of Document.	Reference.
	1740.	14th Jan.	Cochin ...	Resolved to add two more vessels to the Polanen to depart for the coast of Punatur to prevent the French landing there, even by force, if needed. Reported that Punatur Nambeddy visited the French at Mahé. Resolved to send messengers to the Zamorin to induce him to punish his vassal Punatur, and to inform him of the intention of the Dutch to resist the plans of the French. The Zamorin promises, with the help of the Company, to punish Punatur.
	"	19th "	Do. ..	Letter from N. Diroix, Commandant of the French Company at Mahé. He has no intentions against the Dutch Company and the general customs; yet he does not understand what evil may result from their proceedings. Reply from J. V. Stein van Gollenesse. The Company is in war with the King of Travancore and Punatur Nambeddy; consequently the coast is blockaded by the Company's vessels and every other nation prevented from landing according to the usages of war in Europe. Therefore the Company's friends and allies were informed not to send vessels to such places.
	"	21st "	Do. ..	Information received that the French, being frustrated in the Punatur affair, are trying to settle themselves unexpectedly at Tengapatnam, the King of Travancore having held out great promises to them. The vessels received instructions.
	"	30th "	Do. ...	Information received that the French had, by land, paid a visit to the Zamorin. Protest sent to the Zamorin. Considering that the number of troops was not strong enough to resist both the French and the people of Punatur, it was resolved to ask the King of Cochin for assistance and to ask the same from other Princes and allies. Considering that the Zamorin might, notwithstanding the Company's protest, allow the French to enter Punatur by land, instructions were sent to the vessels to plant the Dutch flag on the shore under the protection of the guns. Letter from Quilon. The combined forces of the Dutch and of Signatty devastated the country from Iroor to the river of Attinga, causing great loss to the enemy.
	"	31st "	Do. ...	The French having been refused an audience by the Zamorin, asked an interview with the Dutch servants, which was accorded. Orders issued to Lieutenant Berning not to be aggressive if the French should show themselves in the land of Punatur; but, if they do not leave the place, to molest Punatur in such a manner that the French may become aggressive and then to drive them out of the country by force of arms. Order given to the Commandants of the vessels to start the hostilities against Punatur by taking all vessels going to and coming from Punatur.

				Ola from the Zamorin. He had written to his Rajadhuders to bring troops. Punatur, meanwhile, had sent some agents to Mahé who, accompanied by a French Captain and some soldiers, arrived at Ponany. All these things were done without his (the Zamorin's) knowledge, wherefore he had resolved to take action against Punatur. Letter from the French at Mahé. Finding that the Company were at war with Travancore, they had stopped to carry on operations in that directions ; but, as Punatur had been threatened with war if he should grant the establishment promised by him to the French (which they maintained, was not in accordance with the treaties), they protested.
	1740.	4th Feb.	Cochin ...	Letter from the French Commandant at Mahé. He complains about a French vessel having been taken by a Dutch vessel from under the guns of the English at Anjengo. He demands that restitution be made and the Commander of the Dutch vessel punished. Reply to the Commandant of Mahé. The vessel was taken because it was stated in her pass that she was bound for Colletya situated in the enemy's country, and because she contained a cargo of shields, victuals and other necessaries. However, explanation would be waited for.
	"	10th "	Do. ...	Letter from the Chief De Jong at Cannanore. The French at Mahé wished to take revenge by taking one of the Dutch vessels. They were leaving Punatur to himself till they should obtain vessels and soldiers from Pondicherry. He thinks that the Zamorin is inwardly in favour of the French, who are supposed to have promised him their protection. It is supposed that the French do not answer speedily, because they are at a loss to find a plausible reason. Nevertheless, it is proposed and resolved to send their vessel back, as it is too trifling a matter for breaking the friendship of the two nations. Letter from the Governor of Cochin to Fr. Dirois, Commandant of Mahé. Although the behaviour of the French is unjustifiable, the vessel is for the sake of friendship returned.

	1740.	15th Feb.	Cochin	Secret letter from the Chief of Cannanore The French have received ammunition. It is said that they intend going to Punatur through the Zamorin's territory. It is, moreover, rumoured that Travancore will receive assistance from a certain Prince and will conclude a treaty with the Zamorin against the Dutch Company; that either the first or second Prince of Palyetta is plotting against the Company, the King of Paroor being involved in the scheme; that the French intend taking possession of a piece of land between Cranganore and Chetwa. He has been told that the French at Mahé had received information from Pondicherry that the Emperor, Spain and France, would, about this time, have declared war against Holland and England.
	„	25th „	Do. ..	Letters from Quilon. The Dutch forces, owing to the flight of the Cayencoolam Nairs, had to retreat from Attinga to Iroor. The Rajah of Signatty is desperate, his troops having fled. Resolved to make him levy at once 10,000 Nairs, else the Company would not assist him. The English had assisted the enemy with 150 soldiers, 500 guns and 6 barrels of powder. Their soldiers in the evening returned to Anjengo. Resolved to obtain more certain particulars about the last point.
	„	17th Mar.	Do. ..	Letter from Quilon. The French have effected a landing in Travancore.
	„	24th „	Do. ..	Letter from Quilon. Travancore is collecting forces in Attinga.
	„	13th June.	Do. ..	Letter from the Zamorin. He complains that the King of Cochin has sent people to the Country of Chittur Nambury, taking possession of the lands and arresting the slaves and subjects of that country and committing other hostilities. He begs the Company to send people thither to put a stop to the arrests and cause the restitution of the confiscated property. A resolution is passed to meet his wishes.
	„	15th „	Do. ..	Letter from the second interpreter B. Den Brouwer and ola from the Zamorin. Punatur has, owing to the preparations for punishing him, begged to be again received in the friendship of the Company under certain conditions. These were not accepted; but it was rosolved to suspend matters till the arrival of an Admiral or General from Batavia when the contract with Punatur would be made.
	„	10th Aug.	Do. ..	The parishioners of the Church at Angicaymal, subject to the Company and consisting of topasses, lascars and the so-called St. Thomas Christians (who long ago had joined the Catholic Church), had deposed the former Vicar and, on the instigation of the King of Cochin, had struck the present one and kept him out of the church. Moreover they had the services performed in it by a hired priest, saying that it belonged to the St. Thomas Christians. They consequently maintained the church did not belong to the Company's jurisdiction, and would not obey the Captain of the Topasses, S. Mendes, nor the interpreter, B. Den Brouwer, who had been sent to investigate the affair and to ask the Mordons an account of the church moneys. This had not been done for the past eleven years.—Order is given that no services be held in that church by the so-called Mapulais, nor people buried in it till they obey the Company.

	1740.	27th Oct.	Cochin ..	The French at Mahé have fired at the Dutch vessels passing, though they had their flag on the mast and were provided with passes. A protest is sent to Mahé.
	,,	6th Dec.	Do. ..	Tee Rajadhuders of Martencur and Carinbalicur arrived to speak about the necessity of appointing a King over those countries. The two proposed by Cochin were not acceptable to the Rajah of Cayencoolam, while those proposed by him did not please them because of their being brought up in Cayencoolam. Besides, they wished to have one from among the Nairs. Resolved to wait till the war should be brought to a close and, meanwhile, to have the countries looked after by the Company and Signatty. They agreed to this arrangement.
	,,	15th ,,	Do. ..	Letter from Payencherry Nair. Punatur Nambeddy is inclined to come to Cochin to make up with the Company. He was answered that the differences should first be cleared before the meeting should take place. Captain S. This evil spirit did vent his rage against the Zamorin on account of some vexation caused by the Company. The Zamorin wishing to propitiate the demon forced the Christians to touch the pagoda at Padricotta, and spent 7,000 old fanams to perform ceremonies in it. This bundle contains also a fragment of two letters belonging to a correspondence of 1740 between Cochin and Mahé and Anjengo about some disagreement between the Companies. There is a correspondence (fragment) between the Chief of Anjengo, Charles Whitehill and Julius Valenthyn Stein van Gollenesse, the latter refuting certain charges made by the English Chief. Missive from the Governor-General to the Government of Cochin approving of the restrictions placed on the Roman Catholic Clergy relative to their preaching against the placards, their baptizing of heathen subjects of the Malabar Princes, their clandestinely marrying of the Company's servants and topasses. Considering, moreover, that they pray in their churches for the Pope, the supposed visible head of the church, and for the King of Portugal, the Patron of the churches in India, the proposal of the Commandeur is approved of to make them pray also for the States General, the Superiors of the Octroyed East India Company, the Governor-General and Council and for the Commandeur and Council of Cochin.	Original letters from Batavia, 1743.

	1742.	28th Aug.	Amsterdam	Extract from General Home missive concerning Malabar. A Protestant minister should be provided, or one should occasionally come on a visit from Colombo in order to prevent the children of Company's servants being baptized by Catholic priests. The baptizing by Catholic priests of children of Government servants, at least of such as belong to the Government, should be interdicted. If people brought up in the Protestant orphanage become Catholics, they should be made to make restitution.
				Extract from General Home missive concerning Coromandel. A memorial had been sent by the Comptroller-General of France containing a complaint about the obstruction caused to the French trade by the servants of the Dutch Company in the kingdoms of Travancore and Tanjore. Explanations are requested from servants. Of the six French men-of-war that had left Europe in the year 1740, three had arrived at Pondicherry, landing 2,000 soldiers, who were going to take possession of the Pamby gold mines under pretext that they were to be given as a dowry to a French Prince who had married a Spanish Princess. The servants are instructed to render the efforts of the French unprofitable, since they cannot in this instance resort to armed force.

				Extract from General Home missive concerning Ceylon. The servants are instructed to be very vigilant, as troubles had arisen on the coasts of Malabar and Coromandel between the English and French, lest the peace of the country may be disturbed. They are blamed for having placed in charge of the last yearly Embassy to Candy a man unfit for the office. They should always choose a European who could command the respect of the Candian Court.

Negapatam	Govinda Row Chetke is invested with the Government of Tanjore by the Mahrattas and being dissatisfied with the peace that was concluded butween the Company and Tanjore the year previous, marches to Naoor and surrounding villages, where he commits hostilities. It is also related how Govinda Row plundered Carical and surrounding villages. Anawardi Khan is appointed Nawab of the Lower Carnatic country by Nizamulmulk. The Nizam comes to an agreement with the Mahrattas to resist the forces of the Mughal. Before this a portion of their army had arrived near Masulipatam. It was then resolved to put the town in a state of defence, which became unnecessary when the rumour was spread that the Bengal Nawab Alliwardi Khan had caused their two Generals Alikhan Carroa and Baska Row to be massacred and routed the Mahratta forces, driving them out from the Bengal dominions	Accompaniments to letters from Coromandel, 1744.

Cochin died, his successor is complimented. Puracad remains obstinate against the Company. Mangatty warred against Paroor. Paroor is mistrusted. The pirates of Angria took an English vessel in sight of Cochin; they were pursued but not overtaken. The Roman Catholics, for fear of purgatory, manage occasionally to hear mass. The Commandeur does his utmost to prevent such things. The French are instigating Ady Rajah against the Company and the English.	Letters to Batavia, 1746.

	1741.	6th Dec.	Amsterdam	Extract from Home Resolutions concerning report sent Home relative to the complaints made by the Comptroller-General of France about the obstructions the Dutch Company had caused to the French trade in Tanjore and Travancore. The report had been sent to the States General, and the action of the servants in the said countries approved of. The report runs as follows:—The most friendly relations had ever existed between the Dutch and French Companies in India. There was an old treaty between the Company and the Kings of Travancore, which had been several times confirmed by them, preventing any foreign nations from settling or trading in that country. Now the present King of Travancore having violated the former treaties in many respects, the Company had been obliged to take up arms against him. A notice of this had been sent to the French at Mahé and Pondicherry that they might keep neutral ; but they, not heeding it, had sent several vessels with ammunition and victuals to the enemy ; some had been taken by the Dutch vessels, but four returned to the French in order to preserve the old friendship. With Tanjore, too, there existed treaties, several times and, even of late, confirmed, by which Carical, among other places, had been ceded to the Company and by which the Tanjore Rulers had put themselves under the obligation not to allow foreign European nations to trade in their country, nor to give them a place for it. Carical had been left by the Company in order to make Negapatam the principal trading station without, however, giving up their rights concerning Carical and the silver trade in that country. With these rights the French had tampered. They might allege as an extenuating circumstance that they were in possession of a place called Cabulpatnam (Trimulawaz) near Carical, where they had established themselves in 1688 ; but even this was an unjust usurpation considering that Tanjore's treaties with the Dutch were much older.

He should not extend his line of fortifications closer to those of Signatty, nor receive the deserters from the Company; he should, besides, conduct himself after the decision of the Company concerning Cuttemagalam. „	25th July	Do. ...	Letter from Cannanore. Ady Rajah has received a letter from Angria, who, at his request, will, in the course of the next good monsoon, arrive with a formidable force to assist him against his enemies. Resolved to tax Ady Rajah on this affair per ola. Letter from the supposed Bishop of Cochin, Dom Clemente Joseph Collaço Leitao, dated Anjengo. He had come being against his will and thoughts, invested with the episcopal dignity by the King of Portugal. He begged to be excused for not having written as soon as he had set foot on this shore. At Goa he had received from Portugal viâ Amsterdam a packet of letters, among which the annexed writ from the Secretary of State Pedro de Motte Silva, informing him that his Liege had proposed him to Rome as Bishop of Cochin. The bulls too were included. He did not think the title "Bishop of Cochin" would in any way derogate from the power and privileges of the Company at Cochin. He would not mix in any political questions. Considerations.— Inasmuch as the Jesuitic tricks of the said Bishop were evident, and as there was a general order of old not to allow those rascals in that place, since they could not possibly be tolerated, and reflecting, moreover, that Verapoly and Puttenchery were the only residences of Bishops according to a missive letter from Hertenberg and Van Gollenesse to Batavia, dated 16th May 1741, it was concluded not to answer the letter of the Bishop, yet at the same time to inform the Netherlands and Batavia of it.

Travancore had taken the line of Signatty: some of his Nairs had thereupon come to the shore of Signatty under the guns of the fortress to take away the cannon of the Saramb. The interpreter was sent with an oral protest to Krishna Annavy. Ola from the Rajadhuder and Dallawa ef Travancore, Krishna Annavy, to Quilon. He had given orders to his people to keep away from the Dutch limits, but he would send Mocquavers to take away two or three cannons from the shore near the Saramb. The servant answered that they expected further orders about this affair. Ola from the people of Signatty. Travancore had summoned them to subject themselves to him, which they had positively refused. They ask the protection of the Company.
	,,	17th ,,	Do. ..	Resolved to ask a supply of troops from Batavia because it seemed that Travancore wished to be the sole Ruler on the Malabar coast; also to warn Cochin to be on his guard against Travancore; moreover to send a protest to Travancore against any further undertakings.

Mylapore with its surrounding villages and Melly Nellore had been given to the French by Chanda Sahib. This General conquered the army of Anawardi Khan near Ambur, in which battle the latter fell. Chanda Sahib then moved to Arcot, whence to Tanjore which he besieged, but left being unsuccessful and contenting himself with a sum of 75 lakhs of rupees. Meanwhile the Dewan of the late Nawab Anawardi Khan escaped and reported matters to Nasar Jung, who made preparations to stop the progress of Chanda Sahib. The latter being informed of Nasar's movements again besieged Tanjore and tried three times to take it by storm, but without success. Hereupon he retreated but found the Connaways, which he had to pass, occupied. Hence, wishing to go to Pondicherry by Kumbakonam, he sent in advance 4,000 horse, who, meeting a portion of Nasar's army, were completely routed. Alarmed at this he fled with 6,000 horse and the French to the Fort Waldaoor.	Accompaniments to letters from Negapatam, 1748-1750.

				Extract from Home missive relative to Ceylon. Upon the information that the inhabitants in the Negombo and Calitura districts have objected to pay the school fines on the ground of their being Roman Catholics, it is deemed advisable to act with moderation. The best means of drawing them away from their religion are to instruct them in their own language, to prevent the invasion of priests, their exercises and ceremonies, which is in accordance with former placards. For the 17th article of the treaty of 23rd May 1638 with Raja Sing of Candy expresely stipulated the non-admittance into his territory of papists, monks or other clerical persons; whilst, at the capitulation Colambo in 1656, all Roman priests had to leave with their images and ornaments. It is therefore considered necessary to make a search after the priests and to send them to Batavia, that the common people may be easily gained for the Protestant religion.

Renewal of the resolution of the 24th January ordering the Captain of the Kliene Willem to pursue all the vessels of the Zamorin as far as Tengapatnam and to bring them up as prizes to Cochin. The Resident of Tengapatnam receives intelligence that two native vessels, provided with Portuguese passes, and belonging to the Zamorin, have taken in cloths at Colletya. The Ship-Captain J. Sas pursues and overtakes them, but, dividing his Conganese soldiers among the Almadias, leaving the arms in them and ordering the crews to sail along the coast to Quilon, fails bring them to Cochin himself. For a Portuguese frigate meets them about Anjengo and brings them to Cochin. The captain of the frigate places men on the vessels and sends a Lieutenant on shore to request that Military men be sent to the Almadias. Letter from Chetwa informing that the fortress Inamaka, containing 24 cannons, was, on the 25th March, given up by the people of Cochin to the Zamorin without firing one shot, and that the post Pulicara was fortified with eight cannons from Inamaka; the Zamorin was preparing to attack Chetwa and to march to Pulicara with between 4 and 8,000 men. He had given orders to build a small fortress on an island, about 6 miles south of Chetwa, to prevent vessels sailing in or out. Servants ask reinforcements to keep the navigation free. The Commandeur sends two servants, 47 natives and a few arms by the Johanna Chatharina. 	,,	23rd Aug.	Do. ..	The servants at Chetwa have for some time been unable to write owing to the roads being unsafe. A party of the Zamorin's men burnt a village: the inhabitants fled. At Chetwa they had to take fixed rations owing to the scarcity of victuals.

Letter from the Chief Weijerman at Cannanore informing that the Maharatta Marine forces were on the point of coming down from the north to war against the Dutch nation. He adds that they are real tools of the English and of Ady Rajah. They took an important fort on the limits of Canara. He therefore begs for reinforcements, which cannot be sent.

	,,	27th June	Do. ..	The Rajadhuders of the Zamorin extort from the Christians of Coorty contributions which they had not to pay before. The Christian Uny gives him the means to execute his plans. The Travancore servants are requested to find out if any injustice was practised in this instance. The Zamorin's death on the 7th May. His successor wrote that he wished to carry out the contracts with the Company.
		18th July	Do. ..	The brother of the Prince Cartamana caused a Nair, who was a subject of the Company, to be killed for an arrogant answer, saying there were more such men he wished to punish in the conquest. Complaints about this Prince by the King of Iroor. Resolved to confiscate all the houses and lands of the younger Prince in favour of the Company. Order is sent to the servants of Paponnetty empowering them to shoot any Nair of Murianatty Nambiar (whom the Princes of Cartamana make use of) if caught in a criminal act. Notification of these things to be given to Murianatty Nambiar. Concerning the contributions of the Christians of Coorty, who had complained of them, answer was received from the Travancore servants that it was the custom for a new soverign to levy them; only these contributions were too heavy for the poor people and they (servants) had written an ola to the Zamorin's Minister, Talchenore, to put a stop to those molestations. The servants of Chetwa and Cranganore give information that the inhabitants of Cochin have captured Trichur; that the men of the Zamorin have retreated and that the Nairs of the Zamorin are collecting at Inamaka. Received a letter from the Resident of Tengapatnam stating the death of the King of Travancore on the 7th instant.

Resolved not to do so since, though peace had been concluded with him, the presence of troops had not ceased to be necessary.

Letter from Paponnetty stating that the introduction of tithes, though at first willingly received, is now viewed with discontent, the people having been put up to oppose it by the subjects of Murianatty and Cranganore. They give reasons not to be made to pay the tithes at least for that year. Answer was sent to enforce the tithes since the grievances were not founded, to send a list of the ring-leaders and to be strict in gathering tithes.	Resolutions, 1759, 1760.
	"	18th "	Do. ..	Letter from Paponnetty: the harvest was very scanty, hence the request to be free from tithes for that year. The request is not accorded, but the servants are not to be strict and, instead of a title, they may levy the half or one-third of it, or even less. Great tact is to be used. They are also to find out what are the customs and usages in vogue if Princes or Kings possess lands situated in the jurisdiction of a foreign power.

				Ady Rajah, who is not fulfilling the contract regarding pepper and ill-treats the strangers. He (Weijerman) wishes to be autnorized to prevent ingress and egress of the bay or to use other means to bring him to his senses. This Ady Rajah, continues the letter, had also deprived a Mughal of all his merchandise and costly property and put him in chains. One of his vessels, that was bound for Jiddah had been seized. The Ruler of Jiddah had sent a letter about these affairs to the Commandeur and one of Ady Rajah. The letter to Ady Rajah contains an exhortation to make restitution to the Mughal and to release the Sultan of the Maldives whom he is keeping in prison. Resolved to forward the letter to Batavia and to direct an ola to Ady Rajah to reprimand him to ask for restitution. If he did not behave better he would forfeit the friendship of the Company and might be compelled by other means. Resolved also to send a letter to the Ruler of Jiddah to inform him of all the proceedings.
				The King of Cranganore complains of the tithes being levied in the conquest. The Commandeur replies that no injustice is done to the inhabitants although the Company has never before made use of the right of levying taxes. He is advised to put a stop to his unreasonable complaints.
	1759.	11th April	Cochin ..	The vessel Rosenburg arrives with the information that a small boat laden with pepper was taken away by the English from Bangara to Tellicherry. The protest of the chief Weijerman was fruitless. Resolved to address the Government of Bombay.
	„	31st July	Do. ..	The servants of Cannanore write that Ady Rajah has had several oral communications with the English Interpreter Pedro Rodrigues, after which he has begun to make preparations of war. A scriba and a sergeant were sent to ask him the reason of these proceedings. He answered that Calastry intended to take possession of the Canarese Fort Dekola. This was represented to the Ruler of Calastry, who said he had consented to it. Ady Rajah, with 1,000 men and 12 vessels, rowed up to the north which the servants were not able to prevent, but of which they secretly informed the Court of Bedrur. The Moors did not take the fort but plundered the Canarese country. The conduct of Ady Rajah was becoming worse and worse, wherefore orders were given to the servants at Cannanore to be on their guard, the more so, as Ady Rajah was holding conferences with the English. Resolution to withdraw from Ady Rajah the protection of the Company. The Prince-Regent of Calastry died and was succeeded by a Prince of the same house. The elder brother however, was to manage all affairs owing to the youthfulness of the successor. The English and the French on that occasion appeared at his court with great presents. The Dutch did likewise. The treaty of commerce was confirmed.

				The King of Travancore celebrates the funeral rites of his uncle. The Commandeur sends no one to pay the usual compliments owing to the monsoon. The English make their appearance in great state. Resolved to compliment him by the servants if he comes in the vicinity of Quilon. The Commandeur mentions that illegal power is exercised by Travancore over the Mocquavers in the Company's district at Quilon. The King was requested not to molest further those people, which was promised; but the promise was not kept. Proposal of the Chief De Lij to cede those domains to Travancore which was not deemed practical.
	1759.	19th Dec.	Cochin ..	Letter from the Bombay Government concerning the appropriated vessel. The reason for taking the boat with pepper to Tellicherry was this, because it had no passes showing that it belonged to the Company. The restitution of the boat was ordered. The military men, who had entered the English service, would, if pardoned, be sent back. Copy of letter sent to Cannanore with orders to bring back the vessel and the military men.
				The servants of Paponnetty being again asked how the inhabitants liked the introduction of tithes, gave an answer, from which it was evident that the inhabitants would not pay the tithes except they were compelled. In future the tithes would be collected by specially appointed Collectors supported by a military detachment. The request of the King of Cranganore to be placed on the same footing as the family of Payencherry in regard to the payment of taxes is declined, for the favourable conditions of that family were owing to their having ceded their lands to the Company of their own free will.
	1760.	2nd Jan.	Do. .. Resolved to request the Ministers at Ceylon to send about 1,000 lb. gunpowder per ordinary vessel. Letter from Cannanore informing that a vessel with 250 warriors from the north had arrived for Ady Rajah. Every day vessels under different flags were arriving. They (the servants) had informed the Prince of Calastry of these things; they meanwhile asked for military reinforcements. A vote of censure was passed on the servants of Paponnetty, who had mismanaged the collection of the tithes.

The Rajadhuders of Cranganore had begun to bring the taxes. Request of Cranganore to settle some disputes between the house of Cusicatta and of Cartamana, which was deferred till the servants should have given their opinion as to its advisability.
„	1st April.	Do. ..	An Almadia arrives before Quilon with a Danish flag and is brought in by order of the Chief. A Portuguese shows Danish passes. The vessel was bound from Calicut for Colletya. The Portuguese is informed by the Chief of Quilon of the rights of the Company on that coast. He takes a Dutch pass. Letter from Colletya to the Chief De Lij complaining of the proceedings. Letter about the same concern from the Danes at Calicut to the Commandeur. A reply was sent that the Dutch, who had been on that coast for almost a century, had the right to visit all the native vessels that passed. The same line of conduct was followed by the English and the French, who had arrived comparatively recently. The Danes protested that they had to provide themselves with Dutch passes. This would be continued, however, since they were trading at Calicut where the Dutch Company, owing to the treaties with the Native Princes, had the exclusive right of trade.	Resolutions, 1759, 1760.

				The English try to make Calastry leave the side of the Dutch, but to no purpose. The English are displeased. The result is that a raid is made in the country of Calastry by the rebels and Moors of Ady Rajah, who were supplied by the English with guns, powder, lead and money. The Prince, too, is levying forces for the sake of resistance. The Chief in commenting on these facts is of opinion that now is the time to drive away or to annihilate Ady Rajah and his followers. A present is sent to Calastry, who drives the rebels back to the mountains. Another present is sent by the Chief to Calastry. The Chief fears that Ady Rajah will take extraordinary measures and asks for reinforcements.
	1759.	22nd Oct.	Cochin ..	Letters from Cannanore. The Chief is of opinion that their neutral position in the troubles between the old Prince Barkelencur and the Regent of Calastry will be injurious to the interests of the Company, though the old Prince maintains that a change of affairs at Calastry will not alter the relations with the Company. The old Prince is vigorously supported by the English in his attempts to obtain the Government. Their intention is to drive the Regent out of the country. The English planted their flag to the south of the Baliapatnam river about a mile from the Company's fort. The Chief shall emphatically protest against their measures. The Commandeur is of opinion that their neutrality should be continued.

Now these people in the conquest had to undergo great difficulties, for instance in the case of baptisms and burials for which they had to cross the river, which was not always possible and attended with great expenses. 				It was alleged that the interest of the Company in the Malabar coast was entirely based on the amount of pepper they derived from it ; that as the pepper came for the most part in the hands of the English, the Malabar coast might eventually be of no interest at all. Their admiral was asked what they intended doing there. He said he came as a friend and wanted to make a contract with the Company. He was permitted to come on shore, which he did not do. The Governor planted two flags on the two principal entrances to the town. An old merchant of the Company, Callaga Prebu, who had been ruined by Palyeth, received eight lascars as protection. Palyeth came during the night with 300 Nairs and attacked his house. Six persons of his family were led away and one Cumaran shot dead, two others being 1770.	21st Dec.	Cochin ..	Cochin begged that the troubled affairs might be settled. This was agreed on the following conditions:—He should write stating that he was sorry for the past, and promise to conduct himself better and be more faithful in future. He should demolish his fortress at Angicaymal and disband his soldiers. The family of Callaga Prebu had to be restored to him. All the expense should be paid.—He answered in the affirmative to these conditions, but asked to be allowed to come into town, which was denied to him. Palyeth being considered the cause of all the troubles was, by edict, declared a rebel and an enemy to the Company.

	1784.	18th Nov.	Middelburg.	Extract from Home missive concerning Malabar. The Commandeur Angelbeek is praised for his energetic conduct during the war. The death of the Nawab Hyder Ali, a friend of the Company, may probably cause a considerable change on this coast. The intentions of the English to extend their power on this coast should be carefully frustrated by lawful means. It is uncertain whether the successor of Hyder Ali, Tippoo Sultan Bahadur, will dislike the English as much as his predecessor. The English will endeavour to court his favour as they usually do in the case of Native Princes to increase their own power. At the beginning of the war with the English, peace was made with Hyder Ali, but the differences with Chetwa and Paponnetty had been left unsettled. This should now be looked to. It is to be seen whether the English will execute their plan of restoring the Princes, that the Nawab had driven out, in the country of the Zamorin and Calastry. They, considering their enemity with Cochin, may, if combined with the English, cause a great deal of trouble to him. Therefore he should be supported as much as possible; and this the more so, since Travancore had publicly chosen the part of the English.
